

The EMAC engages the expertise of patients, clinicians, research organizations, insurers, and health systems—among other critical stakeholders—to identify emerging issues around health